Name Withheld

I acknowledge your telephone call to my office on the 7th July 2008.

As you know, I have twice written to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Minister has twice emphasised that the immigration policy of the US is for the US administration to determine. The Minister has stated that our Government is concerned about its effects on British Citizens but that it cannot intervene on individual cases like yours.

I strongly suggest that you seek specialist legal advice so that you may put forward the best possible case to support your entry to the United States. That is not a matter which the British Government can undertake and neither can I.

You may also wish to consider your wife seeking help from her Government and/or specialist legal advice in the United States to assist your entry.

I am sorry I cannot be more helpful.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely

Mrs Betty Williams MP
